JPAG Foundations Event: Sampling and Sample Preparation: The Cornerstones of Analytical Strategy and Successful Method Development

Royal Society of Chemistry, London

The Joint Pharmaceutical Analysis Group, JPAG, is proud to present the Pharmaceutical Analysis Foundations Programme. A series of 1 day events designed to provide in-depth guidance on the most relevant analytical methodologies applied to pharmaceutical products and processes. Each 1 day symposium will cover the essential foundations of a technique and the most up-to-date examples of how that technique is applied in pharmaceutical analysis; the requirements for validation; troubleshooting; and associated regulatory considerations. Opportunities for open discussion with industry leading experts will be available as well as the chance to meet vendors of the latest equipment and network with colleagues and experts from across the industry.
